

September 16, 2025: On Overcompensation and Threats from our Government

Let's be honest with ourselves. The Donald Trump administration is using terrorism to threaten its way past every problem that it faces.

If Donald Trump dislikes drugs, Donald Trump blows up boats he 'knows' contain drugs.

If Donald Trump dislikes a news story, Donald Trump sues the newspaper for 15 Billion dollars.

If. . . , then ... is the repeated pattern occurring against our home as well.

Truly, we are being subjected to abuse from inside of our government by the hand of Donald Trump's poorly reasoned and horribly malformed ego.

People are dying. People are living under threats.

All so that Donald Trump can get his way to appease himself and soothe himself of his injured ego and frame of mind.

There is a serious problem happening here. I am advocating for a mental health evaluation of the President of the USA. He may be cognitively aware of his actions, but he is operating with a dangerous and illegal mind.

If Donald Trump is truly sincere in his beliefs that his dangerous and illegal behavior is proper for the country, then this does exhibit a serious mis-connection between knowing what is right and knowing what is wrong.

At trial, the inability to determine the difference between behavior that is morally right, and behavior that is morally wrong, is grounds for a finding of insanity.

I am advocating for a mental health evaluation of Donald Trump's understanding of the difference between what is actually morally right and what is fully off the edge of evil.

I am not over-dramatizing this conclusion. I am being as serious as possible.

What is happening now is beyond that which is defensible. We are witnessing the self-destruction of an American president to soothe himself that his previous mistake was somehow never a mistake.

May God's wisdom heal him, but until then, I am advocating that Donald Trump be evaluated for official removal from office through use of the 25th Amendment.

Section 4
